About the Work/About the Artist

My work is about people in urban environments. What we do in everyday situations, and what goes on around us unnoticed as we go through our lives as observers and as the observed, sometimes aware and often oblivious. The work is a way of looking inside the cities and at the people who inhabit them. I try to capture the essence of private moments in public spaces that are familiar to us all.

Julie Brown Smith's work has been in many solo and group exhibitions, most recently at Pharmaka Gallery in Los Angeles, and the Harvard Musical Association in Boston. Her paintings have also been featured in several independent films as well as in Vogue magazine, and are in over two hundred private, public and corporate national and international collections, including that of Eric Clapton. She is a member of The Boston Printmakers and the Los Angeles Printmaking Society.
